State Budget May Expand To New High

Increase Would Raise Employees In Civil Service

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen said Friday he will ask the legislative session starting Nov. 16 for another $30 million in operating revenues and $35 million more in capital construction bonds.

A check with the state Budget Office showed the new revenues, to come from a broadened sales tax and be applied mainly to teacher pay, would rocket Louisiana's annual spending for state operations past the $1 billion mark.

The state budget approved by the regular legislature last summer totals $972 million.

CIVIL SERVICE RAISE

The governor also revealed for the first time he plans to include in his requests funds to raise the pay of some state employees under the latest civil service scale.

He indicated about $28 million of the $30 million in new revenues would go into pay raises for teachers, school bus drivers and other school employees.

He said the new revenues would be raised through making the state's two-cent sales tax apply to new items. But he said no definite decisions had been made on specific ways to apply the broadened tax.

McKeithen also has talked of providing more operating funds for financially distressed Angola state prison.

The call to legislators to the special 15-day session, McKeithen said, must go out no later than next Tuesday.

In his news conference, McKeithen said he also would propose that the state Bond and Building Commission be given authority to issue another $35 million in bonds.

Such bonds are used to finance construction needs of colleges and institutions. McKeithen mentioned campuses for junior colleges at Shreveport and Eunice as probable places to use the new bond money.

On state employees' pay, McKeithen said he realized all low-paid employees were not included in the salary boost approved in the regular legislature. These and others due raises, he said, will be covered in the new plan.

In an oblique reference to teacher strike threats, McKeithen said, "We appreciate the loyalty of our state employees.

"I note there have been no strike threats or threats of a motorcade to Baton Rouge for pay raises by our state employees. . . . We appreciate that and we appreciate their patience. We will not forget them."

"We are not inclined to throw open" the session to any outright tax raises, McKeithen said, but merely to broaden the tax base in a way to help the revenue collector.

The governor was asked whether he would sign a tax boost to provide the full teacher pay schedule.

"That would depend on what the tax was," he replied.

He indicated most lawmakers wanted full implementation of the teacher pay scale without any new taxes, and they opposed a tax boost.

"I don't think you need fear," he said, "that two-thirds of them will be running over each other to vote new taxes."

He said his own plan would require two-thirds majority approval of the legislature to pass.

The governor plans to go on television next week, after he issues the special session call, to "point out how the state ranks and what we are doing for the teachers."

Volpe Leading For Control In Massachusetts

BOSTON (AP) — Former Gov. John A. Volpe, Republican, had a lead of 24,444 votes Friday night in a retribution of the tightly contested race for governor with the Democratic nominee, Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti.

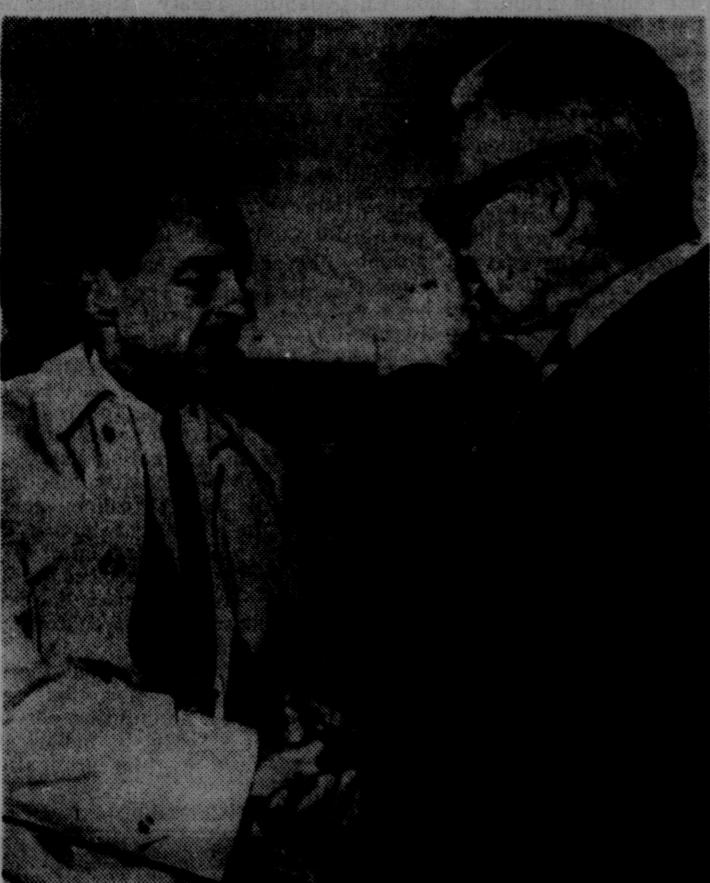

Secretary of State Kevin H. White said, that with 42 precincts missing, the new tabulation showed Volpe's lead to 9,388 over Bellotti.

Volpe 1,122,615

White 1,147,059.

White ordered the retabulation after tabulation errors had cut Volpe's lead to 9,388 over Bellotti.

The missing precincts of the state's 2,024 contained only three sizable communities — Salem and Weymouth, each with 11 precincts, and Fairhaven with 4.

RIOTS THREATEN

New Saigon Chief Pleads For Time

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Mushrooming opposition led Premier Tran Van Huong to beg South Viet Nam's people by radio Friday night for breathing space for his infant civilian government. He urged them to give the government a chance to rule before tearing it to pieces.

Prospects of hostile demonstrations by student and religious factions menaced the Cabinet that took over only last Wednesday — with the diplomatic blessing of the United States — from Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's military regime.

Trouble could hit today or Sunday.

Students were expected to take to the streets this weekend in a demand for dissolution of the government. Buddhist and Roman Catholic elements also expressed opposition but, according to some reports, agreed to hold off mass-action for at least two weeks.

ASKS UNITY

Huong acknowledged that his government has some weaknesses, but called for unity and national discipline to save the nation from communism.

The 61-year-old former teacher took to the air a few hours after conferring with U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor.

Other American officials talked informally with leaders of Vietnamese pressure groups in an effort to get them to ease up on Huong's administration, to which are pinned U.S. hopes for stability in the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

"We are not inclined to throw open" the session to any outright tax raises, McKeithen said, but merely to broaden the tax base in a way to help the revenue collector.

The governor was asked whether he would sign a tax boost to provide the full teacher pay schedule.

"That would depend on what the tax was," he replied.

Experts Say Shroud Killed Mars Probe

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A protective shroud that "hung up" on the spacecraft apparently caused the failure of the Mariner 3 Mars probe. The space agency hoped to take corrective action on a twin craft, Mariner 4, in time to launch it within two weeks.

Experts were taking a hard look at radio data in an effort to pinpoint the exact reason for the failure.

No. 1 suspect was the 300-pound fiberglass shroud that was to protect Mariner 3 from aerodynamic buffeting during the few minutes the Atlas-Agena D booster rocket pushed upward through the earth's atmosphere.

Once in space, the shroud was to eject. But Jack N. James, Mariner project director, reported Friday that data showed it apparently did not separate cleanly and fall away.

Retention of the heavy shroud, he said, would explain several failures that were radioed to earth shortly after the launching.

It was indicated initially that the second stage of the rocket

U.S. To Push Stronger Tie With Europe

Officials Ponder France's Change On NATO Fleet

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials stressed Friday night that the United States will press ahead with plans for strengthening ties with its European allies even though France now opposes a multilateral nuclear fleet.

The officials expressed mystification at what they said appears to be a policy change by the De Gaulle government as disclosed in statements by Premier Georges Pompidou and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

EARLIER STAND

They said that since 1960 when Secretary of State Christian A. Herter first advanced the idea of an inter-allied force to allow the European allies to share in nuclear arms, France had taken the position that it had no objection to the plan even though it did not want to participate.

Paris' newly expressed objection to the multilateral fleet now comes "very late in the day," the officials said.

The Washington authorities stated also it was difficult to understand statements by the French leaders that Paris has not been informed about the plans for the multilateral force.

They said the French government has been kept informed in various talks and has always had the opportunity to sit in on negotiations if it wished, without being committed to joining.

France has not come up with any proposals of its own to back up its criticism of the present North Atlantic Treaty Organization, it was stated. If and when French proposals are received, it was said, they would be carefully studied in Washington.

But in the meantime, the Johnson Administration, newly endorsed by the landslide presidential election, intends to carry out the policies that have been fundamental in the U.S. posture toward Europe the officials said.

These include support for the nuclear fleet project, strengthening of the Atlantic partnership and the program to lower trade barriers through the Kennedy round of tariff negotiations.

Under Secretary of State George Ball is expected to touch on these matters during a pair of quick visits to Europe. He will be in Berlin late next week on a previously scheduled commitment, and may use the opportunity to see West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard in Bonn Nov. 16.

The Soviet statement issued soon after a 23-nation peacekeeping conference, disputed Canada's contention that the meeting was held only to discuss the technical aspects of maintaining international police forces.

TORSO MYSTERY

2 Men Arrested
In Tallulah Case

MEADVILLE, Miss. (AP) — The FBI wrote the latest chapter in the torso mystery Friday with an announcement that two white men — one a Ku Klux Klansman — had been arrested and charged.

The FBI office in Jackson said authorities picked up James Ford Seale, 29, and Charles Marcus Edwards, 31, year-old Klansman, at their homes in Meadville.

They were charged in the deaths of two Meadville Negroes, Charles Eddie Moore and Henry Hezekiah Dee, whose lower portions were found floating in an offshoot of the Mississippi River this summer.

The torsos of Dee and Moore, both 19, were found one day apart in the muddy fishing stream about 14 miles south of Tallulah, La. The first was located July 12.

James Bowles, a Tallulah man who was fishing discovered the torso of Moore bound in a hay rope.

Searchers found a second torso the next day.

At the time, three civil rights workers who disappeared in Mississippi were still not located and immediate speculation prompted thoughts the torsos were the workers.

The bodies of the workers, however, were found beneath an earthen dam near Philadelphia, Miss., later.

The FBI announcement gave no reasons for the slaying of Moore and Dee and no hint of how officers connected Seale and Edwards with the cases.

THE RISING TIDE

Negro Box Votes
For Johnson, 4,000-4

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Negro precinct in Atlanta, Ga., gave President Johnson 4,000 votes. It handed a mere 4 to Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

Goldwater won the state of Mississippi. But Mound Bayou, an all-Negro community, gave Johnson 275 votes—all it cast. This was the pattern of the Negro vote around the nation on Tuesday. A United Press International survey showed that Negro precincts gave Johnson 80 to 98 per cent of their votes in an election where each candidate's stand on the civil rights bill was an issue.

Drives to increase Negro voter registration in the South bore fruit in Tennessee, Florida, Virginia and North Carolina. Abolition of the poll tax for federal elections undoubtedly was another factor.

The get-out-the-Negro-vote drive helped the Democrats take Virginia, Tennessee and Florida away from the Republicans. All three states went Republican in three previous presidential elections.

In four predominantly Negro precincts in Los Angeles County, Calif., the margins in Johnson's favor were 212 to 14, 219 to 9, 110 to 79 and 255 to 12. The Negro vote showed up in the north too.

For the first time Michigan will have two Negro congressmen. They are veteran Rep.

Charles C. Diggs Jr. and newcomer John Conyers Jr., both from the Detroit area.

In New York, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) estimated that 97 per cent of the state's 580,000 Negro voters chose Johnson. About 400,000 voted for Robert F. Kennedy in his successful race against Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y. Kennedy defeated Keating by about 800,000 votes.

Sixteen predominantly Negro wards in Philadelphia contributed 39.9 per cent of Johnson's record 421,000-vote majority in that city.

The Philadelphia Negro wards gave 187,648 votes to Johnson to only 19,144 to Goldwater.

In Chicago's Negro wards, Johnson got 92 to 8 per cent of the vote. The President ran well ahead of Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner in these wards and also topped the late President John F. Kennedy's 1960 totals.

In the nation's capital, which voted for President for the first time since 1800, the predominantly Negro 71st Precinct gave Johnson 1,762 votes, Goldwater, 6. Johnson won the heavily Negro-populated city by 5-1.

A similar vote came from New York's Bedford-Stuyvesant and Harlem areas—both scenes of Negro rioting last summer.

Four Years Behind?

Is the United States four years behind what it should be in the development of weapons adequate to safeguard this country against attack. There is evidence that the situation may be that bad or worse. The whole program of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara seems to have been to cut down on our military strength, instead of advancing it in keeping with the progress of other nations.

One of the best-informed men in this country on our military situation is Senator Strom Thurmond. He summed it up thus:

"The military power of the United States today is not an accurate yardstick for measuring the wisdom of today's military policy decisions."

"The level of power which we have today is more nearly a measure of decisions made five to 10 years ago. Yesterday's decisions determined our strength today, while today's decisions can be finally judged only by the strength of our military forces in the future."

"This condition exists because of a technological factor called 'lead time' — the period between the time when a weapons system is conceived and the time when the actual weapons system is produced and made available in substantial numbers. For major strategic weapons systems, experience has proved that there is a minimum of five years between the drawing board and delivery of the weapons system to the troops."

There is strong evidence to show that a really constructive military planning took a sharp nose-dive from the time former President Dwight D. Eisenhower left office, to be succeeded by the late President John F. Kennedy and then by President Lyndon B. Johnson. Many believe that under McNamara and Johnson our military strength has already dropped dangerously. They also think planning for our military future under McNamara and Johnson has been inadequate.

If we look back through the pages of history and read over lists of countries that have not been able to avoid war by being weak we can see that weakness and appeasement are futile.

When the late Neville Chamberlain returned to England, jubilant at having arranged for "peace in our lifetime," by arranging to give the late Dictator Adolf Hitler a part of Poland and some other areas, he had hardly had time to get settled in his office before his "dream castle" burst like a bubble.

Still Pencil-Voting

For many of those who cast ballots in the presidential race, one of the strangest sights was a picture of President Johnson standing at a table, out in the open, marking his ballot. Most voters prefer and receive more privacy, since most states require voting inside booths and a large percentage of them now use voting machines.

An estimated 65 per cent of all voters in the United States voted by voting machines in the presidential election.

Such machines were first used in Lockport, N.Y., in 1892 and their popularity has gradually increased, although they have not yet been universally accepted, as one might expect. Incidentally, Lockport is the birthplace of Representative William E. Miller, Republican vice-presidential nominee, who lost in Tuesday's election.

Eight states require voting

Watch Out For 'Feds'

Some people in such states as West Virginia, Kentucky, Louisiana, and many others, don't trust the "feds" completely. And, it must be said, it pays to keep an eye on them.

A 19-year-old draftee from the hills of West Virginia was assigned to an army school where a requisite for graduation was a security clearance.

Weeks passed and still his clearance didn't come through. His superiors were baffled, since the boy had never traveled, his family had been Americans for generations and he seemed far too innocent to have been involved with the law or Having learned that Britain would yield, Hitler proceeded with his plans to try to take over England, France, Russia and many other countries in that part of the world.

In his book, "Mein Kampf," Hitler openly proclaimed the theory that once a nation yields to any unjust demand it will never thereafter have the will to resist any encroachment. Russia's takeover of Cuba was an overt affront and an encroachment in the American sphere but the late President Kennedy never really offered any resistance, the only move he ever made in that direction being purely political and apparently through an agreement with former Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

President Johnson and Vice-President-elect Hubert Humphrey pretended to shake in their boots because of their claim that Senator Barry Goldwater was likely to try to plunge this country into war. Now that the election is over, they can put aside internal political considerations and claims and devote their attention to what this nation needs to do to defend itself.

Perhaps most of the blame for this country's lack of military foresight and planning can be laid at the door of Defense Secretary McNamara. The late President John F. Kennedy gave McNamara practically carte blanc permission to handle the military affairs as he chose, including disregarding of the opinions and advice of our most capable military men.

A free hand was what McNamara was said to have demanded of Kennedy and to have been trying to demand of Johnson. For a good many months, Johnson has been so occupied with the presidential campaign that he has had little time to devote to other matters. Johnson, however, is said to have let McNamara know that not all decisions will be left to the defense secretary and that more consideration will be given to military advisers, with Johnson having the final word.

Because of this, one analyst said some time ago that McNamara, wanting full authority or nothing, planned to retire after Johnson starts his new term as President.

With things progressing the way they have been during McNamara's regime as military boss (including the takeover of Cuba, the Viet Cong mortar raid against American planes and personnel at the Bien Hoa Air Base, and other American face-losing encounters) it looks as if McNamara's resignation would be one of the best steps for the country that could be taken.

DR. PETER J. STEINCRONH

Patient Creates Useless Problem

OFTEN IT SEEMS inconceivable to me how patients can create a needless problem, and live in anxiety, when ordinary common sense offers the solution. For example, consider this letter from reader regarding X-ray findings which are confusing her:

Dear Dr. Steinrohn: I had X-rays of my stomach three months ago. He isn't a regular, licensed doctor. They showed that my large colon has dropped way down. For three weeks he gave me enemas. I asked for another X-ray. The colon had straightened out, he said, but was still not right. He started me on an electric diet and in another three weeks I asked for another X-ray. It was the same as the first one. I have lots of gas. I am worried that the rest of my colon will drop, too. Do you have any advice? How can I treat this condition without surgery? — Mrs. S.

Comment: All together now, readers: "Why haven't you gone to a regular M.D. for an opinion, Mrs. S.?"

This SUGGESTION is so evidently good common sense, you may wonder why Mrs. S. has put her health and life into the hands of a person not a doctor. It's easy to berate. It's easy to say, "Why have you been so foolish?" However, when fear takes over, most of us act irrationally for a while.

Probably Mrs. S. read an ad in a magazine which made vague promises about the cure of disease of the colon. Perhaps a friend recommended this pseud-doctor. Perhaps she just wandered into his office. That is not important now. What is essential is that she get the correct diagnosis from a licensed physician. High colonic irrigations for low colons have gone out of style with the Model T. Besides, many a "low" colon is a healthy, normal colon.

Stop thinking about operation, Mrs. S.; let some ethical doctor put your mind and colon at ease. Otherwise you'll go through life in abnormal contemplation of your umbilicus and lower intestinal tract.

DEAR DR. STEINCRONH:

Three years ago I noticed a lump in my thyroid gland. It grew larger then stopped growing. About six months ago another lump grew. One doctor advises operation while another says it's wiser to treat it with iodine. I'm supposed to have "adenoma" of the thyroid. I am 34 and the mother of three children. What would you advise? — Mrs. F.

Comment: I can only take sides in this instance as if I am a cheerleader sitting in the stands rather than as a participant in the game. I'd have to know all the signals and formations to give you an accurate estimate of how things are going. All I can say is that in my experience, treating adenoma with iodine is ineffective.

ROTC Controversial Issue

Top Brass Against It In High School

IN THIS INCREASINGLY topsy-turvy world, nobody takes a dimmer view of high school students marching in uniform than some of the top brass in the Defense Department.

Their disinterest is apt to touch off another siege in the chronic hostilities between Capitol Hill and the fortress-like Pentagon across the Potomac River.

The basis of the potential fight is a bill President Johnson signed into law with some apparent reluctance recently. It streamlines the college Reserve Officers Training Corps program — which the Pentagon wants — and simultaneously expands the high school ROTC program — which a number of powerful Defense officials don't.

Mr. Johnson, in signing the bill, said he would direct Defense Secretary McNamara to undertake a detailed study of whether the high school drills are of any military value. Some of McNamara's subordinates have already stated they aren't.

THIS IS APT TO bring a recurrence of the periodic feuds in which Congress attempts to force the Pentagon to do something it doesn't want to do such as build RS-70 bombers in quantity. Theoretically the Congressmen's control of budgets gives them the whip hand, but they don't always win.

The college ROTC was established in 1916 and is built into the curriculum of a majority of the nation's major universities. Over the years it has been a primary source of officers.

Two years ago, the Army and Air Force asked Congress for authority to convert to the Navy's program and their proposed bill came before Rep. F.

Edward Hebert (D) La., a 24-year veteran of the House Armed Services Committee.

HEBERT HAD NO objection to the request, but had a program of his own he wanted adopted: expansion of the nearly-dormant junior ROTC for high school students.

This program of military instruction for teen-agers had expanded slowly during the 1930's but in 1947 — with 254 schools enrolled — the Pentagon froze the program and figuratively threw any new applications into the round file. They contend the program had — at best — only slight value in the overall defense picture and required full-time personnel as instructors.

Hebert, however, had been receiving letters from parents and school boards in many cities who wanted their sons to have some military training. Such training, he felt, would do more than give teen-agers the rudiments of presenting arms and saluting — it would help prevent dropouts and thereby curb juvenile delinquency, not to mention instilling a little patriotism in the nation's future voters.

He extracted from the Pentagon a statement that high school training did, after all, help its graduates to fit into regular army training if they enlist or are drafted later. So armed, he wrote a section into the Pentagon's college ROTC program providing for expansion of the junior program up to 2,000 high schools.

THE BILL PROVIDED that the Pentagon would install a junior program in any public or private high school which requested one. The school had to guarantee adequate space for outdoor drilling and classroom instruction and at least 100 physically qualified male students. Once it installs an ROTC program, the high school has to make it compulsory for all the young men it enrolls.

The bill also answers the Pentagon's objections about drawing off needed personnel by stipulating that retired men shall be used for instructors wherever possible.

Hebert, who seldom has difficulty passing legislation he sponsors in the House, got quick enactment in that body but the Senate Armed Services Committee let it hang fire for months.

Finally, in the closing days of the session, the Senate Committee produced a bill cutting the maximum number of Junior ROTC units to 1200. The Pentagon would be authorized to accept 200 new ones a year, and none would be added until 1966.

The only important opposition to the Junior Program in Congress came from Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D) Wis., who argued that the proposal was a waste of time and money and that the same thing could be accomplished on a voluntary basis with the Federal Government supplying only some inexpensive equipment. Nelson mustered only a few votes and the Senate bill went to the White House.

McNAMARA, WHO has a nose for ferreting out expenses he considers extravagant, hemmed and hawed but finally recommended that the President sign it. Several hours later, the White House broke the news about the "detailed study."

In the past, "detailed study" of legislation pushed by Congress but opposed by the military usually means the proposal will be studied into oblivion. Hebert, aware of this, wrote the bill to read that the Pentagon "shall" accept applications for new junior units. The language appears to leave little room for sidestepping, but anyone who has ventured into the Pentagon knows how easy it is for people — and plans — to get lost.

Hebert, who is proud of the bill as he would be of a son who made first string fullback at Notre Dame, will be watching the Pentagon carefully in the ment the program fully, but he

Henry J. Taylor Russia Planning China Alignment

MOSCOW'S PRAVDA, the party newspaper, means Truth. Izvestia, the government newspaper, means News. And someone long ago coined the phrase: "There is no pravda in Izvestia and no Izvestia in Pravda."

At this moment, however, they reveal important tips to us. With Khrushchev kaput, the Kremlin's ideological laundry has been scrubbing hard on both papers. While the Soviet leaders coo meaningless reassurances to Washington, new Red facts glow like campfires. The party line is being set within the U.S.S.R. for a rapprochement with Red China.

It is impossible to overstate the importance of this prospect. It is equally impossible to overstate its effect on our foreign policy. Down comes baby, cradle and all.

Our policy has proceeded — hook, line and sinker — on the idea that the split with Red China would somehow solve our Soviet problem and its main dangers for us, and that this split was irreconcilable.

THIS WISHFUL thinking would have been bad enough if it were merely the convenient dream of mistaken theorists with soaring foreheads, but it is the fundamental basis for our government's concept of the cold war. To err may be human, but to be that deep in error is dangerous on a scale that allows no comfort even to those who have protested that this concept was false and could justly say, "I told you so."

Pravda leads Izvestia in policy declarations and the current revelations now appear as slogans to guide party officials at the great November 7 celebration of the 1917 Revolution.

Russia and Red China were as close as wallpaper to a wall and spoke with one voice at the 1960 Moscow conference of 81 Communist parties. The Sino-Soviet "sing along with Mitch" result was their universally adopted slogan of the "united anti-imperialist front." But when dissensions and bickerings bobbed up the Soviet dropped this slogan. And the action helped to gain our foolish confidence.

Well, now this Sino-Soviet slogan, never abandoned by China, returns as Moscow's No. 1 slogan for the November 7 celebration.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR. Conservatism Not At Death's Door

It will have been said, by the time these words appear, that Goldwater conservatism is dead dead. It is only safe to say that it is dead if one assumes that otherwise the Senator would have been elected.

The undertakers are premature. I do believe. There are a number of statistical precedents of some bearing. Granted that statistics are wonderfully servile things, which can be ordered around to prove almost anything at all. Still, those conservatives who have given way to despair might remind themselves that the socialist party in England only five years ago lost by a percentage roughly equal to Senator Goldwater's and they are back in power.

Those liberals who have given way to elation should remind themselves that the Democrats lost in 1924 by a margin roughly comparable to Senator Goldwater's, just eight years before they seized American history by the mane and ruled supreme for twenty years. One year's landslide loss, in other words, is not necessarily permanent thing in a dynamic society, and there is no reason for American conservatives to believe either that their hearts deceived them in telling them he was right, or that the time will never come again when the American people can correct our public policies.

Finally, American conservatives are entitled to say that the returns have transcribed for all time the American consensus on the critical issues of our day. It is unsafe to conclude that the people endorsed the President's ambiguous foreign policy, that they are prepared to endure the rigors of a coerced egalitarianism in New York both Keating and Kennedy were constrained to come out against the bussing of students to integrated schools), premature to suppose that the question is forever settled whether to retain the federal system. What the conservatives need to meditate upon is something more than the artificial factors that tended to militate in President Johnson's favor.

THE ODDS AGAINST Senator Goldwater were enormous, beyond the unpopular conservatism of his position. I ventured to say after his victory in California that the odds against him were roughly five to one, and that the odds were at least as great, if not greater, against any other conceivable Republican candidate. It is, I believe, important to stress this distinction in conducting the post-mortems. Senator Goldwater won the Republican primary in California. Having done so he was cast by history as the inevitable candidate of the Republican Party. If Governor Scranton, or Governor Rockefeller, or Governor Romney had wrested the nomination at that point, Goldwater Republicans would have deserted the G.O.P. in droves even

When will the pumps start operating on Bayou Desiard? Why is the level of the bayou now so low?

The Department of Public Works said that the pumps are expected in Monroe in about two weeks and that installation of the pumps should be completed by Jan. 1. The level has dropped because water is no longer being used from the Ouachita River. The city is now getting all its water from the bayou and due to a lack of rain, the level has fallen. The pumps will draw water from Bayou Bartholomew and remedy this situation:

They were: Nov. 21, 1884, Wednesday; Aug. 2, 1894, Nov. 14, 1912, and Jan. 1, 1920, all on Thursday; Oct. 30, 1910, Sunday, and June 22, 1915, and Aug. 1, 1922, both on Tuesday.

Why are almost all books for school libraries in Louisiana bought from Jenkins Book Company in New Orleans?

Most library books were purchased until recently through the Jenkins firm because until recently the company has designated as the state's library book depository. The new depository, named soon after the beginning of the McKeithen administration, is New Orleans New Company, 1111 S. Peters St., New Orleans.

As the arrangement goes, in a set-up designed to simplify dealings with various book publishers, the publishers store their books in the warehouses of the depository, rather than directly from publishers, with the depository realizing an approximate five per cent mark-up for its services as a clearing agency.

The bulk of library book purchases is made through such a channel; however, the funds used are those allocated by the state for the purpose. School systems often provide funds of their own, in which case they may, and sometimes do, deal with other firms. For example, the Ouachita Parish system, this year, has approximately $20,000 set aside for new books and bookbinding. This sum need not be spent through the depository.

Textbook depository for the state is Thomas J. Moran.

Officials note that, even with the use of the depository, books are purchased for considerably less than retail prices. As well, a central depository is felt to create a distinct advantage in avoiding direct dealings with a multitude of individual publishers.

I live on a suburban mail route and the mail box is located across the street from my house. If a car is parked in front of the mail box does the postman have the right not to leave the mail?

According to our experts, Woodrow W. Hathorn, postmaster of the Monroe post office, and Francis J. Hays, superintendent of the mails, postal regulations require that patrons have an "accessible receptacle" for receiving the mail. When a car is parked in front of the box, the box is not accessible. Hathorn said that members of this staff would be glad to discuss any individual matters concerning postal service in this area. Hays said that most carriers will try to leave the mail if there is any way possible for them to do so, but he said they are not required to do so.

I built some apartments on a corner lot and the City of Monroe wouldn't issue a building permit unless I agreed to connect the buildings with my house with a roof. They wouldn't issue a certificate of occupancy until I did this which means I couldn't rent them until I built the roof. Yet, down the street from me the same situation exists, but those people did not have to connect the apartments to their house. Could a private citizen tioned at right-of-way streets, and the motorist is charged with knowledge of the right-of-way.

Do intermittent turn light signals on automobiles dispense with arm signals under the law?

The intermittent turn signals are permissible in Monroe, provided they are known to be operating properly. The driver is held accountable for the turn signal's proper functioning.

What is the law governing the required distance for following another vehicle?

The motorist following another vehicle is forbidden to drive at a speed greater or at a distance closer to the preceding car than he can stop his vehicle if confronted with an emergency.

How can a person obtain information about courses to train as an airline stewardess?

Where an automatic signal light is present, the red light means that the vehicle must come to a complete stop and not be caught within the intersection even though the light is about to change. "Stop" or "Yield" signs at an intersection require a vehicle to come to a practical stop which must be followed by a complete stop should a vehicle be approaching near enough to render an accident probable. These signs are not mandatory but are satisfactory.

You should choose one or more airlines that you would like to become associated with, then write their personnel department for the proper procedure in applying for a stewardess position. Be sure and include all information about yourself, such as educational background and other qualifications.

Say 69.3 Million

Voted Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Still incomplete returns show that more than 69.3 million Americans — a record — voted last Tuesday. But about 200,000 of them didn't vote for president.

With returns still to be tabulated from about 1,300 precincts — less than one per cent of the voting units — the total vote for president is 69,168,883. That includes some 200,000 votes cast for unpledged Democratic electors in Alabama, and not credited to President Johnson.

A spot check of the total votes in the biggest race in each state and the District of Columbia showed a turnout of 69,354,603, some 186,000 more than the presidential race attracted.

With the remaining precincts to be counted plus absentee ballots and minor party votes in many states the total turnout appears likely to approach 70 million. That would be about halfway between the previous high of 68.8 million in the 1960 presidential election and the prediction of state officials and qualified observers that this year's turnout would reach 71.1 million.

In several states the voters apparently had more interest in Senate or gubernatorial races than in the contest for president.

Block Rolls

JONESVILLE (Special) — Block of Jonesville rolled over Wisner 25-12 here Friday night in the 50th playing of the school's homecoming.

Block quarterback Owen Holland scored twice in the second period to spark the non-district victory. He went 41 yards early in the frame after a fumble recovery set up the score and with 45 seconds left in the half scooted over from the nine. Both extra point attempts failed.

Halfback Bill Atkins got the Block boys on the scoreboard early in the game with a six yard run which ended a 71 yard drive. That PAT attempt failed.

Block also scored in the third before allowing Wisner to notch its points. Quarterback Mike Wilson went over from the 10 yard line with halfback Barrell Taylor running the point after.

Later in the third, Wisner got its first score with halfback Joe Pike, who went over from the five yard line.

In the fourth, Wisner scored with halfback Sammy King taking it over from the eight yard line. Both extra point attempts failed.

Dianne Scott was crowned queen of homecoming activities.

Holly Ridge, 12-6

BERNICE (Special) — Hard running halfback Bo Miller made the difference here Friday night in a district 2-B football contest played in a hard rain at Holly Ridge remained unbeaten in league action by toppling Bernice, 12-6.

With Miller doing the damage Holly Ridge, now 6-2 for the year, punched across a third quarter TD then broke a 6-6 deadlock with three minutes to play in the game for its victory.

Miller scored the first Eagle tally in the third quarter when he rammed over from the six yardline. A run on the PAT attempt was stopped short.

Bernice came back to tie the game 6-6 late in the same period with quarterback Mike Grafton collecting the score on a one yard sneak. The Bears attempted a run for the extra point but it was stopped.

Midway in the fourth frame Holly Ridge pounced on a Bernice fumble at the Bears' 40 yardline and set in motion the winning drive. Miller also scored this time on a two yard plunge.

The PAT run was stopped short but the Eagles had little trouble holding on to win.

Miller was also outstanding on defense for Holly Ridge while Jimmy Lindsey, an end, and linebacker Ronnie Lautigard pacified the Bears' defensive efforts.

Ruston Triumphs

RUSTON (Special) — Fumbler — eleven of them — took a hand in all scoring as the Ruston Bearcats edged the Haynesville Golden Tornado, 12-7, here Friday night in the game that set the stage for next week's district 2-AA championship game between Ruston and Jonesboro-Hodge.

With the ball slippery from rain, Ruston committed six fumbles, losing four of them, and Haynesville fumbled five times, losing three of them.

The Bearcats took a first quarter lead when Wayne Parkman scored from the four two plays after Ruston recovered a

Byrd gained only two yards on its following series of plays against a suddenly surprising Ouachita defense and was forced into a punting situation for the first time of the night. A Ouachita fumble gave the Jackets back possession of the ball minutes later, however, at the Lion 37.

From here Byrd pushed down to the 15 before the pass interception by McCain killed the threat at the one.

In the fourth quarter Byrd got the ball deep in Ouachita territory with a fumble recovery at the 36. In five plays Brooks broke around right end to tally. Frasier kicked the PAT.

Just two minutes later Byrd tallied again with Brook breaking off tackle for 63 yards, running down the sidelines untouched into the end zone. Al Childs converted.

The final Byrd score came with 2:23 remaining in the game with Jeb Cloyd running around end from 10 yards out. The game ended with Byrd knocking on the door again at the Ouachita 23.

Tornado fumble at the Haynesville seven.

Haynesville pounced on a Bearcat fumble in the second quarter at Ruston's four. Mike Powell made the recovery for the Tornado and Tom Allen cracked over for the touchdown. Kenny Camp ran the point that enabled Haynesville to lead 7-6 at the half.

But Haynesville fumbled at its 17 in the third quarter. Ruston recovered, and it wasn't long before Parkman cracked over from the one.

Tom Allen was the offensive standout for Haynesville which showed good defensive play by Chester Wroten. Ruston's offensive load was carried by its starting backfield, while Courtney Reed, Jimmy Martin and Jackie Love were defensive standouts.

Ruston and Jonesboro-Hodge, with 2-0 district records, have clinched jobs as 2-AA's representatives in the state playoffs. They'll decide the No. 1 and No. 2 spots in their game at Jonesboro next Friday. Haynesville's league record is 1-2, and Winnfield is 0-3.

Ruston led Haynesville in first downs, eight to four, rushed for 204 yards, completed two of seven passes for 22 yards, and Haynesville rushed for 84 and completed one of seven passes for 15 yards.

Southside, 13-0

STERLINGTON (Special) — Southside got two first half scores and then hung on in a defensive battle played in a steady downpour here Friday night for a 13-0 victory.

Pat Bruner carried on for Southside during the closing moments of the first half from the 10 yard line. A pass from Lonnie Delacarbe to Kenzie Carbo added the PAT.

Midway of the second stanza Dennis Duplessis picked off a Panther pass and returned it 35 yards for a touchdown.

Sterlington got only one penetration of the night. Leading defensive efforts for the losers were Homer McDugal, Johnny Borden, Johnny Williams and Donald Dumas.

Islanders Trounce

BUCKEYE (Special) — Playing in a heavy downpour didn't dampen the scoring spirits of Sicily Island here Friday night as Arnold Ready broke loose for five scoring runs including two punt returns of 85 yards each to lead the Tigers over Buckeye, 51-14.

In addition to his punt returns, Ready scored on runs of 32, 50 and 88 yards to lead the rout over hapless Buckeye.

The win moves the Islanders up to a 7-2 season record.

Jimmy Newman kicked four extra points for the Tigers.

Bill Stubbs picked up another Sicily Island tally from the nine yard line and guard Marvin Nolen dashed 80 yards with a recovered fumble to add to the Tigers' scoring punch.

Billy Ray McCarthy got the final Sicily Island touchdown with a three yard plunge.

Darrell Hicks got both Buckeye touchdowns on runs of 20 and two yards.

Sicily Island goes against Newellton next week and could clinch the district title with a victory.

Menard Romps

JENA (Special) — Menard's Eagles wrapped up their district 3-A AA campaign in high-flying fashion here Friday night, defeating the Jena Giants 31-6 in a powerful offensive show.

The victory boosts Menard's season record to 7-1 and leaves it with a perfect 5-0 mark in district play, and of course the league championship.

Menard scored 17 points in the first frame, added seven more in the second period and tacked on final seven in the last frame for the victory. Jena's tally came early in the fourth quarter when the Giants mounted an 80 yard scoring drive.

The TD for Jena came on an 11 yard pass from quarterback Chris Tarver to halfback Joe Ganey.

Fullback Mike Gremillion and kicking specialist Pat Belini shared scoring honors for the Eagles. Gremillion scored Menard's first TD on a one yard buck after it had been set up by a 28 yard pass from quarterback Bruce Davis to Jim Dougherty and Gremillion also scored again, this time from 50 yards out on a screen pass from Davison in the second quarter.

The Indians marched for their final touchdown early in the fourth with Herrington scoring from the two.

The setback eliminated Bogalusa from the 3-AA title picture.

Istrouma Alive

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Istrouma rolled over Bogalusa 22-0 to keep alive in the District 3-AA title chase Friday night.

The Indians launched two first half drives for touchdowns with Mike Herrington and Wayne Sullivan capping the marches with plunges from the two.

Istrouma added a safety in the third stanza, trapping Grant McElveen behind the Bogalusa goal.

Tigers, Vikings Tie

OAK GROVE (Special) — The Oak Grove Tigers and Vidalia Vikings maintained their neck-and-neck race for the No. 2 spot in the district 2-A football race here Friday night as they battled to a 7-7 tie.

Even the first downs were even, also 7-7, but Oak Grove had a shade the better in penetrations, 2-1.

Oak Grove hammered to the Viking one in the final period but a five-yard penalty for illegal procedure and 15-yards on personal foul backed the Tigers away and they lost the ball on downs.

Vidalia went on a 74-yard drive for its touchdown in the second quarter, quarterback Jamie Jackson getting off a screen pass to fullback Alvin Frazier for the TD on a 47-yard play. Joe Stampy kicked the point.

Benny Murphy got away on a 33-yard touchdown run for Oak Grove in the third period, and Mickey Broadway, the district's leading scorer, ran for the tying point. The Tiger TD came on a 55-yard march.

Oak Grove and Vidalia, each 7-1 for the season, could possibly have a post-season playoff for the No. 2 spot in the league. Oak Grove is 5-1 in district, and Vidalia is 4-1.

Terrebonne, 7-0

HOUMA, La. (AP) — Mike Melancon scooted 33 yards for the game's only touchdown as Terrebonne of Houma defeated Redemptorist of New Orleans 7-0 Friday night in a triple-A game.

Melancon's run was set up by Eric Lottinger's 36-yard return with an intercepted pass.

Redemptorist drove to the Terrebonne 11 in the second period and to the 16 in the fourth.

Ferriday Falls

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Natchitoches' Dale Morvan crushed three yards for a touchdown in the first period to put Natchitoches on the road to a District 3-AA over Ferriday, 14-0 here Friday night.

Just before the half, Mike Luckett rammed through tackle and went 44 yards to score for the Trojans.

After a scoreless third period, Tallulah struck again after recovering a Winnboro fumble at the Wildcat 33. Laird passed to Bobby Todd for the fourth Trojan TD.

With 20 seconds left in the game and the second line Trojans in action, Don Morton, who had kicked extra points after the second and third TDs, squared away to boot a 22-yard field goal.

Crowville Wins

MANGHAM (Special) — Mangham's Dragons scored first here Friday night but couldn't make it stand up as Crowville's Bulldogs tallied TD's in the second and fourth quarter to win the non-district tilt, 14-7.

Mangham quarterback Gordon Allen picked up the Dragons' TD when he scampered 20 yards in the first quarter.

In the second quarter, Crowville started clicking and wasn't to be denied.

Right halfback Hollis Weatherly gathered in a 17 yard pass from quarterback Gale Ashley for the initial Crowville score.

McClendon Talks About 'Bama Tilt

By Keith Prince

"I guess I'm feeling as well as can be expected at a time like this," an amiable coach Charles McClendon said over the telephone a couple nights ago.

"At a time like this" was the LSU mentor's way of describing what is now only hours away — the Bengals' meeting with mighty Alabama at Birmingham's Legion Field.

Although naturally not exuberant, Coach McClendon was far from downcast as the game grew nearer.

"I am confident that the boys will have themselves ready to play a good ball game against Alabama," McClendon said. "We've had good workouts this week and are all aware of the importance of the game. Of course, it's certainly a big one for them, too. In fact, this is IT for Alabama. A win Saturday would assure Alabama of the SEC title."

"And, although we will still have a long way to go for a championship, the game is certainly a must for us, too," McClendon remarked. "So the stage is set. It should be a dilly."

Naturally, on the minds of all ardent LSU fans is the health question pertaining to Pat Screen, the Bengals' flashy quarterback who owns a chronic knee.

"I wish I could say something definite about Pat," Coach Mac sighed, "but it's just impossible. Nobody knows just how the knee will react at a given time. Right now Pat can do several things well on it, including pass, but he will definitely be handicapped on his overall performance."

As a report of how far along Pat is now compared to the week immediately following the first time it was injured, McClendon said, "It is in much better shape now, no doubt about that."

"To explain this type of injury you could probably say that it is like betting on a horse race — you may pick a winner two or three times in succession or may go the rest of your life without choosing the right horse. As for Pat, he may go the rest of his life without bothering him, or it could go out several times in rapid succession for no apparent reason."

McClendon has been pumped all week for information on Screen from newspaper men in Alabama. And, the successful pilot has a ready answer for the Alabamans. "Pat's in just about the same shape as Joe

About People And Places

With the help of AP writer Mike Rutherford we have a few pro shorts plus a couple of items from Prince's pot full of goodies.

George Blanda of Houston set AFL records by attempting 68 passes and completing 37 in a loss to Buffalo . . . Gail Cogdill of Detroit, who has caught 15 passes in the last two games despite a broken finger, has now grabbed at least one more in 62 consecutive games, beginning with his first appearance as a pro . . . The record is 95 by Don Hutson. Green Bay's Jim Taylor has moved into third place on the all-time ground gaining list with 6,180 yards in his career . . . He has passed Steve Van Buren and now trails only Jimmy Brown and Joe Perry.

Everybody's talking about Jerry Rhome, the sensational Tulsa passer, but only two pro teams can talk to him about that green stuff. He has already been drafted as a future by the Dallas Cowboys of the NFL and the New York Jets of the AFL.

Here's betting there is one club sicker than all because Rhome isn't playing for them. That club is SMU which had Rhome on its roster during his freshman and sophomore years . . . However, in the spring of 1962 Hayden Fry replaced former coach Bill Meek. During the spring session Fry didn't use any drop back pass plays and threw only from a roll out. Rhome, realizing that passing was his best ticket to stardom, simply didn't show up for fall practice at SMU. Instead he went to Tulsa and started

Without any more big words or promises for the future we will simply give you this week's predictions — which, naturally, will all be correct.

TECH HOMECOMING

Prestige, GSC Crown At Stake

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech will have national prestige and at least a tie for the Gulf States Conference title riding on the 2 p.m. homecoming contest here today with Southeastern Louisiana College.

The unbeaten Techsters will be seeking their eighth straight win of the campaign and their tenth consecutive victory extending back into the 1963 season. In fact Tech's last loss was to Southeastern 15-7 at the last season.

Southeastern has a 2-1 record so far with two open dates and a postponed tilt with USL accounting for their inactivity. The Lions have had two weeks to prepare for their battle with the Canines here today.

Junior fullback Gerald Mc-

Dowell, Tech's top runner, was held out of last week's game with Tennessee Tech. He has gained 382 yards in 92 carries to pace the Canine ground game. Sophomore halfback Aiden Reeves has 261 yards on 78 trips with the ball; fresh Richie Golmon has 134 on 26 carries and sophomore Tom Linder 118 on 34 runs.

Billy Laird, despite three interceptions, had a good night against Tennessee, bringing his season totals to 124 attempts, 62 completions for 849 yards and six touchdowns.

Junior end Wayne Davis leads receivers with 16 for 231 yards while end David Lee has 14 receptions for 233 yards. End Pat Lynch has 10 receptions for 132 yards. Corky Corkern nine for 139 yards and Reeves eight for 109 yards.

Lee's punting has been one of the club's bright spots all season and he still has a 40.1 average for the season, despite a number of short kick situations.

Stan Galloway at Southeastern has 21 lettermen back and two of the better backfields around composed of Dick Cothern at quarterback, Eliss Johnson and Jerry Dunaway at halfbacks and Harry Nunez at fullbacks.

Tech scouts report the Lion forward wall has speed and agility. If the Hammond crew has any inexperience it is in the line because all the backs are veterans.

Houston won with 35 points to 51 for the Houston Track Club, a collection of former U of H performers. Lamar Tech was third with 81 points, Southwestern La. Track Club fourth with 96, Northeast fifth with 115, McNeese sixth with 142, and Northeast freshmen seventh with 194.

Rice had entries among the 52 runners participating in the meet but not enough to compete for the team title.

The loss was the first for Northeast since the Gulf States Conference in December of 1962. Coach Bob Groseclose's runners won seven straight meets in 1963 and two more this year before being tied by McNeese last week.

John Macy of Houston Track Club won the meet with a time of 18:20 over the four mile course. Rain fell during the meet and the course was muddy, slowing down the runners.

In the junior varsity division, Neville was also victorious with a 25-31 win, although Rob Herrington placed first for the Rebels with a 11:36 timing. Neville's Fred Beale was second with 11:48.

Mickey Sullivan of Southwestern Track Club was 10th with 19:39.

Tom Brown led Northeast with a 19th place finish, with a time of 20:13.

Here's the way the other Northeast runners finished: 22. Bill White, 20:37; 25. Bill Smith, 20:45; 28. Jim Bodin, 20:55; 30. Herman Domingue, 20:58; 33. Bobby Keasler, 21:05.

The Northeast freshmen finished like this: 39. Bule Mays, 21:26; 40. Willis Delhomme, 21:27; 41. Phillip Mapp, 21:36; 43. Robert Harison, 21:40; 49. Cullen Warren, 23:04. 51. Billy Butler, 23:04.

RAY, MOREAU HOLD KEY

LSU-Alabama Tilt Highlights Today's College Grid Picture

By HUGH FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

The outcome of today's big football game between Alabama and Louisiana State may depend on a couple of feet — those of Bama's David Ray and LSU's Doug Moreau.

Here's the situation: They're the only unbeaten teams in the Southeastern Conference. Alabama is third in the current Associated Press national rankings and LSU is eighth. The winner is almost sure to get a post-season bowl invitation.

Bear Bryant's Alabama team has shown the strongest offense in the conference in winning seven straight games. LSU, coached by a former Bryant pupil, Charlie McClendon, has a grudging goal line defense that has accounted largely for five victories and a tie. Both teams will be hampered offensively by injuries to quarterbacks Joe Namath of Bama and Pat Screen of LSU.

That brings us down to Ray and Moreau, a couple of able pass catchers who also are particularly adept at scoring with their toes. Ray has kicked 10 field goals in 11 attempts and 17 of 18 conversions. Moreau has been successful on eight of 13 field goal tries and five of six conversions. If they're stale-mated, the game may be decided by the one who kicks more successfully.

Other teams ranked in the Top Ten face assignments about as stern as those of Alabama and LSU. Notre Dame, which vaulted over Ohio State to the

No. 1 ranking this week, goes against Pittsburgh while second-ranked Ohio State faces Penn State. The records of the Eastern teams aren't imposing but both are strong enough to be potential upsetters.

First place in a half dozen other major conferences is up for grabs in other weekend games. Purdue, No. 10 nationally, is tied with Ohio State for the Big Ten lead and could go ahead by beating Michigan State while the Bucks are busy elsewhere.

Fourth-ranked Arkansas, the Southwest Conference leader, plays well-regarded Rice. Should the Razorbacks lose, Texas, No. 6, could tie for the lead by beating Baylor.

Nebraska and Kansas, tied for first in the Big Eight, meet in a head-on struggle and the rugged Cornhusker defense may have trouble holding Gale Sayers down. Duke has to stop Wake Forest fullback Brian Piccolo, the major college rushing leader, to be sure of holding the Atlantic Coast lead. Otherwise Clemson could go ahead by defeating North Carolina.

In the Ivy League unbeaten Princeton must down ancient rival Harvard for the first time in four years to stay ahead of Yale, which has been tied but undefeated and faces last-place

Penn. In the Western Athletic Conference Utah can tie New Mexico for first by whipping last-place Brigham Young. New Mexico plays a non-conference game at Texas Western.

Unbeaten Bowling Green risks its Mid-American Conference lead against third-place Marshall while Ohio University plays Western Michigan.

The Pacific Athletic Conference leaders both play intersectional games, UCLA against Air Force and Oregon State against Indiana.

Some of the other weekend high spots: Syracuse-Army at New York; Navy at Maryland; seventh-ranked Georgia Tech vs. Tennessee; No. 9 Florida vs. Georgia at Jacksonville; Illinois at Michigan — a battle of the coaching Elliott brothers; Memphis State at pass-happy Tulsa; Florida State at Houston; Kansas State at Arizona State and Southern California at Stanford.

Northeast Faces USL's Bulldogs

Northeast State and Southwestern clash tonight in a Gulf States Conference football game, their first in Lafayette's McNaspy Stadium in four years.

Game time is 8 p.m.

The Indians and Ragin' Cajuns last played in Lafayette in 1960 with USL taking a last-minute 8-7 decision. The two clubs met in Shreveport's State Fair Stadium in 1961 and 1962 and in Monroe last fall.

The youngest teams in the conference, Southwestern has only three seniors on its squad and Northeast four.

Southwestern is favored to win tonight's contest on the strength of consecutive victories over Tampa, Louisiana College and Lenoir Rhyne but Northeast leads the series between the teams with seven victories to USL's five.

Cajun Coach Russ Faulkinberry has primarily a sophomore-junior team in the fourth year of his five-year program to make the Lafayette team a grid power. USL lost its opener to Southern Mississippi, then dropped a hard-fought 6-3 decision to Louisiana Tech before reeling off three straight wins.

Starting fullback Miles Gossell is out for the season with a dislocated elbow and Faulkinberry has moved up rookie Tommy Hayes into his spot. Hayes himself was injured and idle last week when he ran twice against Lenoir Rhyne for 13 yards.

Gerald Landry is the scoring leader with 44 points, one of the

DESPITE GOLDWATER

South Rejects Local GOP

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Republicans scored spectacular congressional gains in some states of the Old Confederacy, but at the important state legislative level they suffered a net loss in Tuesday's voting.

In seven states where legislative elections were held, Republicans gained 17 seats but lost 19 others for a net loss of two.

The GOP picked up a few legislative seats in three other Southern states during the past three years.

Despite the sweep by Barry Goldwater of five states and the election of seven Republican congressmen, voters rejected scores of GOP candidates for state House and Senate membership.

Georgia, which went Republican in the presidential election for the first time, provided the biggest legislative victory for the minority party.

Republicans gained 10 seats, and 49-1 in the Senate, giving them a total of 16 — six seats out of 18.

In Texas, the GOP lost five out of six, leaving only one Republican in the legislature — Rep. Frank Cahoon, who said: "I've got definite ideas about government and one of them is maintaining the two-party system. Come to think of it, I make the two-party system in Texas."

In previous elections, the GOP got two seats in Alabama, two in Louisiana and three in Mississippi, including one Democrat who switched parties. Virginia had no legislative election this year.

Goldwater carried Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. Republicans won five U.S. House seats in Alabama, and one each in Georgia and Mississippi, for the first time since Reconstruction.

Florida Republicans lost 6 seats out of 18.

Georgia Republicans now can be an effective minority in the Senate.

Republicans gained five legislative posts in Tennessee. They added two in the Senate, three in the House. This gives the GOP eight of 25 Senate seats and 24 of 75 House seats.

One Republican was elected to the Arkansas Legislature, one to the South Carolina assembly. That is the total GOP representation in those states.

The worst legislative loss was in North Carolina. The Republicans dropped eight seats. This made the Democratic-Republican ratio 106-14 in the House.

Georgia, which went Republican in the presidential election for the first time, provided the biggest legislative victory for the minority party.

Pianist To Stars Dies; Played For Hollywood Best

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Composer-conductor Buddy Cole, 49, who provided piano accompaniment for such singers as Bing Crosby, Rosemary Clooney, Marlene Dietrich and Phil Harris, died Thursday night.

His death, attributed to a heart ailment, occurred at his North Hollywood home. Friends said he had suffered two previous heart attacks.

Cole had worked Thursday on music for Crosby's television series. He also had worked during the day with Harris, who is preparing for engagements at Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe, Nev.

Cole leaves his widow, Clara, a former nurse. He previously was married to Yvonne King of the King sisters singing group. He leaves two daughters by this marriage, Teena, 21, and Kathy.

Goldwater carried Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. Republicans won five U.S. House seats in Alabama, and one each in Georgia and Mississippi, for the first time since Reconstruction.

African Beat Greets Pope At Council

VATICAN CITY (AP) — African drum beats, the sound of cymbals, clapping and native chants echoed in St. Peter's as Pope Paul VI visited the Vatican Ecumenical Council and opened its debate Friday on missionary work.

Pope Paul smiled.

In a gesture said to symbolize his support of the concept of papal power shared with bishops in governing the church, he took a place in the middle of 12 cardinals presiding over the council. He sat with them instead of his own throne above and behind their thrones.

In a brief speech, Pope Paul praised the document on missionary work.

College provided the music. At the end of the Mass, when the drum beats and clapping mounted in a sign of joy, many of the bishops sitting in the tiers of seats joined in the rhythmic hand-clapping themselves.

A member of the commission that helped draw up the missionary schema said after the session that missionary activities never receive the financial support they need. The schema states that "the laity must provide for the missions their own contribution of prayer, sacrifice and material assistance."

He said the council had the "outstanding task of preparing new roads, setting up new methods and stimulating new energies for a more effective and more vast diffusion of the gospel."

The Pope recently has been placing stress on the missionary function of the Church. When he announced last month that he would attend the international eucharistic council opening in Bombay Nov. 28 he said he would go as a missionary to honor missionaries.

His personal visit to the council to open the debate on the missionary topic was reported a source of satisfaction to missionary bishops among the council fathers who are said to be unhappy with the attention missionary activity gets in the Church.

A member of the commission that helped draw up the missionary schema said after the session that missionary activities never receive the financial support they need. The schema states that "the laity must provide for the missions their own contribution of prayer, sacrifice and material assistance."

It also proposed establishment of a "central evangelization" to coordinate the activities and programs of all the various missionary groups around the world. Under present procedures such groups operate on their own, without coordinated action with one another, receiving individual orders from Rome.

Stretchwear Now Available In Fall Styles

After a long test period on the ski slopes and summits, stretchwear has found new uses in Fall fashion. Now, the same fit, flexibility comfort and style are available in a whole new range of stretch clothes.

But unfortunately some women are tempted to take advantage of stretch fabrics. For instance, a size 10 pair of pants doesn't stretch to fit a size 12. If you move toward too many sundae or other fattening goodies you'll be moving toward sausage casing silhouette. But there's no excuse for that when modern weight control products make the pounds - losing routine almost pleasant. They come in liquid, wafers and soup, in many easy - to - take flavors. So, where there's willpower there's a way to diet - and to look right in stretch fashions. Good luck and good shaping!

Also don't make the mistake of thinking stretch is only for the very young. Stretchwear for mature but controlled figures can be found in clothes for golf, tennis, bowling and boating. Blouses, jackets, jumpers and both pleated and slim skirts are now made of stretch fabrics.

The annual Christmas party will be a covered dish luncheon held in the home of Mrs. Grace Guillory on December 1, at 10 a.m.

Reports were given by Mrs. Guillory on house furnishings and Mrs. P. E. Rodgers on consumer education. Mrs. Rodgers advised buying materials at this time for savings.

"Labels That Tell the Story," was the talk given by Mrs. Dawson stressing the need for consumers to inform the manufacturer of likes and dislikes.

Reading labels on pesticides and abiding by them was another vital suggestion.

Mrs. Lessie Wade was in charge of games after which the hostesses served luncheon to Mrs. Dawson, guests, and the following members: Mrs. Guillory, Mrs. E. Hargrove, Mrs. Lessie Wade, Mrs. Bennie Brakefield, Mrs. W. L. Ewing, Mrs. Rowe Harrell, Mrs. P. E. Rodgers, Mrs. Sidney Karr, Mrs. B. A. Johnson, Mrs. Tim Ford, Mrs. L. O. Guillory, Mrs. W. H. MRS. JAMES JARRELL

Annette Graves Becomes Bride Of James Jarrell

Miss Carolyn Annette Graves became the bride of James Jarrell of Norfolk, Virginia, in a double ring ceremony solemnized Sunday, October 25 at 3 p.m. in Temple Baptist Church, with Rev. Leon Ivey officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Graves of Monroe and Mr. Jarrell is the son of Mrs. C. C. Jarrell and the late Mr. Jarrell, also of this city.

Vows were exchanged before the altar which was banked with baskets of white gladioli and candles in wrought iron candelabra. Traditional music was provided by Mrs. Phillip Kulcke, who accompanied the soloist, Don Hern.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her traditional gown was styled with a fitted bodice of Alencon lace over nylon organza with sweetheart neckline, etched with sequins and three-quarter sleeves. The bouffant skirt of nylon organza over taffeta was highlighted with lace panel down the front, accented at the waist with two tiny bows of organza. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and sequins and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and stephanotis atop a white Bible, Bible, showered with white satin streamers.

Miss Sarah Ann Jarrell, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and only attendant for the bride. She wore a dress of yellow whipped cream with matching slippers. Her head-dress was a yellow velvet bow and she wore short white gloves and carried an old fashioned nosegay of white feathered carnations.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a dress of green brocade with matching hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of white feathered carnations. The groom's mother wore a two-piece dress of navy silk linen with black accessories and a corsage of pink feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church annex where the refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth over yellow linen and centered with a mass arrangement of yellow roses. At opposite ends of the table were the tiered wedding cake and crystal bowl of yellow punch. Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Manson Blackwell, Mrs. Jeffrey Dean and Miss Bobbie Lee Evans. Miss Mona Ascota presided at the guest book.

For travel the bride wore a two piece white costume suit of lightweight wool with white accessories and the corsage of yellow roses from her bouquet.

After a wedding trip to New York City the couple will be at home in Norfolk, Virginia. Mrs. Jarrell, the granddaughter of Mrs. Wade Thomas of Monroe, is a graduate of Neville high school and Northeast Louisiana State College. The bridegroom was graduated from Lisbon high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

NEW YORK IN THE FALL is said to be a most marvelous combination of place and time for visiting. Miss Lallage Feazel, Mrs. Malcolm Biedenharn and Mrs. Carl McHenry are well aware of this so they plan to leave Sunday for an exciting week of shopping and theater-going in that fabulous city.

MR. AND MRS. CULBERT LEE spent the past weekend in Baton Rouge making the acquaintance of their newest grandchild, a daughter, Margaret Lynn, the third child of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Goodwin.

FLYING TO BIRMINGHAM last night to attend the LSU-Alabama game today was a group of football enthusiasts. There to do their best for the "home" team will be the Kent Andersons, the John Sherrouses and the Walter Hastings.

Let Complexion Be Your Key

Giddy wigs, wash - away hair colors and gleaming chignons this fall provide tempting invitations to match your wardrobe to your tresses.

Color experts at research laboratories say you can have fun with these in-and-out fashion trends and still build a flattering wardrobe for the seasons to come. The secret? Let complexion be your color key.

Certain colors flatter the milky skin usually associated with redheads, some the pale rose tone of blondes, others the brunnette's ivory to olive complexion.

Pastels are especially attractive against the translucent skin of gray-haired women.

No matter what her coloring, each woman needs a clear complexion! Low-cut gowns for winter parties — in gorgeous fabrics and jewel tones — will make the most of beautiful backs.

Clear skins will better "show off" the designers' daytime colors — smoky oranges, beiges through dark browns, greens and gray.

A good complexion enhances all fashions, and vice versa.

Paris Disputes Cool And Warm In Fashion

By FLORENCE de SANTIS
The news from the fall Paris collections often seemed so contradictory that women ended up being thoroughly confused. And no wonder, since Paris itself is deep in a fashion argument between those who believe the future is with warm fashion and those who want to play it cool.

We use the words with new meanings. Warm fashions are strongly feminine in the once-traditional way. A coat like Jean Patou's pale green wool, with its blouson, dolman sleeves, big collar and flared skirt, trim of decorative buttons and ribbing on hemline and collar — that's warm fashion.

Cool fashion disdains the traditional signs of femininity, and its apostle is Andre Courreges. As enough has been written about his sensational pants suits, boots, use of white and camel, typically "cool" colors, this article will be about the "warm" designers.

Some Paris couturiers have never been anything else. Among them are Balmain, Ricci, Dior and Jean Patou. Feminine, to them, means what it has always meant, a softened silhouette well decorated with furs, beading and other trim in that combination of expensiveness and good taste that has spelled Paris couture since Charles Worth established it a hundred years ago.

These houses constitute what might be called the Old Guard of the couture, and they have almost always been under fire from some new designer who attacks their whole conception of what is feminine. Forty years ago it was Chanel. Now she seems nearly like one of the warm designers, snorting in her turn at the Courreges' idea of pants for street wear.

Fashion is a tolerant world and it has had room for Chanel, as it will for Courreges. But the majority of designers have been on the traditionally feminine side, for a very simple reason. That's what the customers want.

When St. Laurent opened his current, extremely traditional collection, Gloria Guinness, often called the world's most elegant woman, was supposed to have turned thumbs down. Nevertheless, it is St. Laurent from whom she has ordered this fall, not Courreges.

Despite the furious attacks of the cool designers, the warm ones mistreat their china when getting it ready for washing.

One should never scrape off leftovers. Always remove them with a paper towel or napkin. Never use steel wool or abrasive cleansers that might scratch the protective glaze on the china.

And, never slide one plate onto another as that may also scratch the glaze. Set one plate on top of another gently.

Mrs. C. S. King and her cooking classes will serve.

Teachers of the Future Teachers of America will act as hostesses and guides, according to Mrs. Daisy Bergeron, sponsor.

ones continually hover around the spirit of the 1930's. The Christian Dior era is a little too near; they might be accused of mere copying. With the Thirties one gets that comfortable distance, and the style shortens divinely. Short skirts can't be put with Dior, he designed too exactly for long ones.

Typical of the Thirties influence is the work of Pierre Cardin, the only warm designer who goes so far with his styles that he is considered even more avant-garde than Courreges.

Successful for fall is his pale green wool suit with pinch-pleat skirt, low-belted back-button jacket with big, gray fox collar and cuffs. It subtly combined the dropped waist look of the Twenties with the general Thirties silhouette, in order to keep the skirt short.

Specialists Advise Women On Knitwear

By FLORENCE de SANTIS
In White Plains, N.Y., the Martha West shop has made its knitwear a specialty. The husband-wife team of owners advise customers on how to make their knits smart.

In buying, a woman should look for style features. A knit can look awfully dull if it isn't in a strong color, has texture interest, or has some eye-catching accent such as leather. Fit comes next. The shop caters to sizes ranging from 8 to 42, has seven people just to do alterations, literally won't let a customer buy if the fit isn't right.

Vital, say the owners, is the taffeta slip or petticoat. Each customer is queried as to whether she owns one for her knits. Most get one if she doesn't. This under-garment is the secret of a knit looking perfect in the wearing.

Russia To Allow Freed Farm Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Soviet regime announced a far-reaching liberalization of Kremlin policy on the controversial issue of private farm plots Friday.

Announcement of the radical shift in ex-Premier Khrushchev's policy of reducing private farms was made by his successor, Communist party first secretary Leonid Brezhnev.

Brezhnev's audience in the Kremlin Hall of Congresses greeted the news with enthusiastic applause.

The move was certain to cause rejoicing among Russia's land-hungry peasants.

It also was expected to relieve, before long, shortages of potatoes, vegetables, meat, milk and eggs in Russia's cities.

Brezhnev said, "in recent years unwarranted restrictions were permitted in this area although the economic conditions were not yet ripe for this step."

"These restrictions have now been eliminated."

The new party boss clearly indicated the Kremlin would abandon Khrushchev's varied proposals for reorganizing agricultural administration.

He laid special emphasis on material incentives for the farmers and greater independence for collective and state farms in planning and organization.

"It would be incorrect to neglect the possibilities of the private farming plots of collective farmers, workers and employees for the satisfaction of their needs," he said.

Earlier in the day, Pyotr Shelest, Communist party boss of the Ukraine, disclosed in the newspaper Pravda that decrees broadening the private farm sector already had been passed by Ukrainian authorities. The same was true of Estonia.

Private plots, which amounted to only about 3 per cent of the total area sown in recent years, contribute a disproportionately large share of Russia's total food output — more than 60 per cent of potatoes, more than 45 per cent of the vegetables, more than 40 per cent of the meat, more than 45 per cent of the milk and more than 80 per cent of the eggs.

The high productivity of the private plots compared to the state-run farm yields is a chronic embarrassment of the Soviet regime which insists on the superiority of socialized agriculture.

Beginning in 1956, Khrushchev began applying the administrative screws.

The size of the plots and authorized limits on privately-owned livestock were reduced. At the same time taxes were levied on livestock owned by urban workers and feed supplies were sharply limited.

Again, in 1958, new decrees required state farm workers to sell their livestock to state farms. Collective farmers also were pressured into selling their animals to their collective farm administrations.

A year later, urban dwellers were forced to sell their cattle.

One of the primary aims of the new Kremlin move appeared to be to stimulate a fast recovery from last year's wholesale slaughter of pigs and cattle because of a critical feed shortage.

Virginian Goes To Jail Instead Of Killing 'Ricky'

PEARISBURG, Va. (AP) — A man who refused to permit authorities to destroy his German shepherd dog, Ricky, for sheep killing, has begun serving a jail sentence for contempt of court.

Jim Laing surrendered to Giles County authorities Thursday and was placed in the county jail to begin serving a four-month term.

A spokesman for the sheriff's office said Laing "didn't even speak" when he turned himself in.

Laing was convicted of contempt in the county court July 9, 1963, and was given both the jail sentence and a $1,000 fine.

Laing appealed the conviction and the case came to the attention of the governor of Virginia, the U.S. Supreme Court and the Virginia Supreme Court. The same was true of Estonia.

SALARY SHORTAGETeacher Unrests Growing; 19 Leave Georgia Classes

RINGGOLD, Ga. (AP) — Growing unrest among teachers over salary disputes has cropped up in widely separated areas and walkouts are threatening in Georgia, Oklahoma, Kentucky and Louisiana.

In the northwest Georgia county of Catoosa, citizens have formed a club to raise funds to keep the public schools open.

Nineteen teachers walked out earlier this week, forcing the Lakeview high school at Ringgold to close. The 196 teachers at the other schools in the county have voted to walk out Nov. 25 unless provisions are made to pay them. They have been told they might not receive their November salaries because of a fund shortage.

Teachers in two Oklahoma school districts voted to take a one-day holiday Monday. About 600 teachers in Midwest City, an Oklahoma City suburb, voted for a protest walkout and Tulsa's 2,500 teachers also plan a "professional holiday."
